Schwan Elected GHI President; Helm Challenges Praise for Zubkoff

By Claude Wimberly

Charles Schwan is the new President of Greenbelt Homes Inc. He was unanimously elected by the board of directors on January 9 to replace Harry Zubkoff, who recently resigned.

At the same time, the board accepted nominations to fill the vacancy on the 9-man board created by Zubkoff's departure. Those nominated Thursday night were Ben Goldfaden and Stephen Polaschik. Further nominations to the post will be considered by the board at its next regular meeting, when a successor is expected to be named.

Earlier in Thursday night's proceedings, Schwan moved to have read into the record a News Review editorial lauding Zubkoff for his fine record of public service in Greenbelt. The editorial appeared in the issue of December 19.

Schwan said he thought the editorial a fine tribute to the former corporation head.

The motion promptly drew fire from Bill Helm. He proposed an amendment, which he said would record "one or two faults" which the "not too factual" editorial had omitted in its build-up of Harry.

Board members and spectators listened in stunned silence while Helm, in a low-voiced monotone, leveled a bitter attack on the former board president's handling of GHI affairs.

He accused Zubkoff of being a turncoat, who got on the board because of his stand on certain key issues, only to reverse position after election. He cited the elderly housing question as one.

Helm charged, among other things, that Zubkoff not only violated the trust voters had placed on him, but was guilty of calling special board meetings without "proper legal notification." He asserted the former president had called numerous executive sessions of the board to discuss matters he did not want brought out in the open.

Reaction came swiftly when Helm concluded. President pro-tem Ed Burgoon angrily denounced Helm's accusations. He said he thought the charges against the ex-president for reversing his position were actually "a credit to a man who is intelligent enough to admit when he is wrong."

Schwan defended the News Review editorial, and said it was a "fitting" tribute to Zubkoff's service to the corporation. He characterized the former president's service as "distinguished and valuable." Schwan added that to read the editorial into the minutes represented but "a small tribute from his colleagues" to a man deserving of much more praise.

The board voted five to two to record the editorial. Joe Cherry opposed the measure, along with Helm, but did not speak against endorsement. One member, Frank Lastner, was absent. He arrived at the meeting later in the evening. Helm's amendment failed for want of a second.

Zubkoff, who was present at the meeting as a visitor, refused to say anything regarding Helm's charges.

Other Actions

Other actions by the board included:

— authorization for manager Breashears to spend up to $250 for a "suitable gift" to be presented to Baltimore attorney John Callan. The lawyer has performed numerous valuable legal services to the corporation for which he refuses to accept payment. The board felt he should be given a token of appreciation.

— Tentatively approved a preliminary operating budget involving expenditure of some $1,500,000 during the coming year. There will be a second reading at the next meeting.

— Held an executive session to consider a request by one of the members that he be permitted to trace plans of wiring, water mains and sewage lines serving his court. The manager refused to grant him access to the drawing without authority from the board. Breashears previously had permitted the petitioner to obtain a diagram of the underground facilities on his own property, he said.

C.U. Annual Meeting To Elect 4 Directors

The annual membership meeting of the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union will be held in the hospitality room in the Greenbelt Co-op Supermarket on Wednesday, January 22 at 8 p.m. Principal business of the meeting will be reports to members on 1963 operations, and the election of four directors and one credit committee member. Nominees for directors are: incumbent board members Joseph C. Cherry, James N. Wolfe and George W. Adams. Edward C. Kaighn has been nominated to fill the fourth board position. Incumbent Carl L. Eubank has been nominated to fill the vacancy on the credit committee. Board members Benjamin Rosenzweig, President; James S. Beck, Vice President, and Joseph D. Comproni, Treasurer, are serving the second year of two-year terms.

The credit union made good progress in 1963. Treasurer Comproni reports that shares (members' savings) increased 32 percent to $438,500, and loans increased 15.5 percent to $494,700. Assets total $528,500. The board of directors voted to continue the annual dividend rate of 4½ percent. Dividends are paid semi-annually, and members received a 2¼ percent dividend on their share balances as of December 31, 1963. A 2¼ percent dividend was paid last July on share balances as of June 30.

The Greenbelt Federal Credit Union was organized in 1937. The field of membership includes all residents of Greenbelt, members of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc. (GCS) who reside elsewhere in Prince Georges County and are affiliated with either the Greenbelt or Pen-Mar areas of the Co-op and GCS members who are affiliated with the Takoma Park or Piney Branch areas. Although the credit union has no service facilities outside of Greenbelt at present, it is planned to open a credit union service center in the Co-op Supermarket at Takoma Park in the near future.

City Aids High Point Band

The city of Greenbelt has decided to lend a helping hand to the High Point High School Band which is in need of funds to pay transportation costs to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans in February. The Band will represent the State of Maryland.

The council authorized the manager to employ for snow removal purposes high school students who would be willing to donate their pay to the band. A limit of $100 was set.

The councilmen stressed that this project is worthy of support by private individuals and that contributions should be mailed to the High Point High School Band, c/o Allan Chotiner, Principal, High Point High School.

Council Once Again Votes to Deny C-2 Zoning for Kenilworth Strip

by Al Skolnik

For the third time within a year, the Greenbelt City Council has recommended denial of a petition for rezoning of the 5.8-acre tract of land opposite the Greenbelt Junior High School. The latest action of council took place Tuesday, January 14, when it turned down by unanimous vote (with Mayor Edgar Smith absent), a request by William Martin, owner of the plot, for a C-2 (general commercial) zoning.

The present C-O (professional offices) zoning for the land was recommended by the Maryland National Capital Park & Planning Commission and approved by the county commissioners on December 17. The petitioners have within 30 days to ask the commissioners to reconsider their decision. In the hope that a request for reconsideration would bear greater weight if supported by city council, the petitioners asked for a special meeting with council.

In making the presentation before the council, Russell Shipley, representing the owner and the prospective developer, Stidham Tire Company noted that only the part of the tract between Edmonston Rd. and Kenilworth Avenue furthest from the school will be developed by Stidham. A partial two-story building will be erected for a retail tire outlet and to house the company's bookkeeping operations. The building, Shipley said, will no longer encompass recapping operations and thus the I-1 (light industry) zoning originally requested last May will not be necessary. An investment of $500,000 will be involved, resulting in an assessed valuation of $275,000.

In arguing for the C-2 zoning, Shipley said that there was little market for C-O zoning at this time. He said that Stidham would accept any covenants on the property requested by the council so as to assure acceptable construction. Such covenants could also apply to the balance of the tract to assure future development in a compatible fashion.

Councilmen Object

Councilmen Lewis Bernstein, making clear that his objections to the zoning were not directed at Stidham's plans as such, stressed the fact that the people of Greenbelt have indicated that they are against any further commercial zoning at this time. He declared that "Commercial development should be concentrated in Beltway Plaza," and expressed the fear that any broadening of this barrier would lead toward wholesale commercial development of Kenilworth Ave and Greenbelt road.

Councilman Bill Hoff said that a C-2 zoning would not be in keeping with the orderly development of the area as outlined by the master plan now being prepared by MNCP & PC.

Councilman Cliff Simonson emphasized the feeling that it was more important to push low density development than high density use at this time. The city, he said, should first be assured of the residential character of the community before considering further commercial.

Martin, in reply, observed that actually the C-O zoning could permit much higher density development (such as a high-rise office building) than the requested C-2 zoning with its contemplated 2-story Stidham building. City Manager James Giese pointed out, however, that the property would not support a high-rise building because of street set-backs, parking requirements, etc.

Covenants Criticized

Simonson also minimized the protection offered by covenants. As an example, he cited the experience of the city of a 20-acre triangular tract at Ridge rd. (the dirt road) and Edmonston rd. The council last year recommended that this land, owned by Garvin and Martin at that time, be approved for R-18 zoning with covenants to restrict development to 12 dwelling units per acre. R-18 zoning usually permits garden apartments of about 24 units per acre. The developer had plans for town houses.

However, when the petition got to the county commissioners, they approved a R-30 classification which had just been introduced to meet the need for "town-house like" developments and which provides for lower-density development than R-18.

Last fall, the 20-acre tract was purchased by Rozansky & Kay who initiated plans to build apartments rather than town houses with a density of about 15 units per acre. The city reminded the developer of the covenants which restricted density of 12 units per acre, but in turn learned through legal counsel that the covenants were no longer applicable since the zoning was now R-30, instead of R-18.

Thus, Simonson stated, the city is going to get additional apartments despite all the promises of the original owner.

The lesson from all this, both Simonson and Bernstein concluded, is that the city's best protection lies with proper zoning rather than covenants. Despite the best of intentions of the owners of property, circumstances change which often make it difficult to enforce covenants.

In addition, the county commissioners when they zone are not permitted to take into consideration the covenants. Hence, a C-2 zoning for the Kenilworth strip, the council fears, will inevitably increase the pressure for further C-2 zoning and in cases where the owner is not willing to give covenants.

Tydings Visits Greenbelt In Senatorial Campaign

Senatorial Candidate Joseph D. Tydings will visit Greenbelt next Tuesday January 21, during a tour of northern Prince Georges County. Tydings, who formally announced his candidacy last Tuesday, is campaigning with the support of such major political leaders as David Hume, Christian Kahl of Baltimore County and Phillip Goodman of Baltimore City.

An open invitation is extended to all Greenbelt citizens to join Mr. Tydings for coffee at 3:15 p.m. on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon M. Pristoop, 110 Northway, or at 4:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell D. Owens, 23 F Ridge. Mr. Tydings, son of the late Sen. Millard Tydings will discuss national issues and will answer questions from everyone present.

"INVITATION TO BID ON SALE OF TWO BUSES: The City of Greenbelt, Maryland, invites sealed bids for the sale of two Used Buses. Bids close at 8:00 P.M., February 3, 1964. Instructions and Invitations to Bid may be obtained at the City Offices, 111 Centerway, Greenbelt, Maryland."

URGES ZONING PROTEST

To the Editor:

According to a ruling given last week by Judge William B. Bowie, the 76 acre tract which intrudes like a jiz-saw puzzle piece into the midst of the Greenbelt Regional Park may be rezoned for high-rise apartments after all. I urge all residents of Greenbelt to do their utmost to protest this rezoning, which is in their worst interest. Even now the proposed regional park is already torn by expressways - existing and under construction - and the zoning of its central section for high-rise apartments may be the last straw. Let us not see our regional park lost in urban congestion!

County Welfare Board Seeks Homes for Infants

An urgent need for temporary shelter homes, particularly for Negro infants, faces the Prince Georges County Welfare Board, according to Mrs. Jean Sisk, Supervisor of Shelter Care Placement.

"One large family needing emergency care would exhaust our resources for white children and the only place we have to put Negro infants now is in the hospital", Mrs. Sisk said today.

In making an appeal to the residents of the County to provide care for these needy children, Mrs. Sisk said that the Welfare Board through a special appropriation made last year by the Board of County Commissioners is able to pay $3.50 per day per child and $10. per month for each bed available. "This means that any home able to provide bed space and care on a temporary basis receives $10 per month whether the bed is used for the full time or not. Foster parents are asked to keep a child for a period of up to sixty days but the length of stay may be shorter due to changing circumstances in the child's own home."

Needed medical attention is provided at no cost to the foster parents by the Prince Georges County Health Department.

Children needing temporary homes, are, in many cases, picked up by the Police Department because of parental neglect or mistreatment and are committed to the Welfare Board through Juvenile Court. The Welfare Board also receives many calls pertaining to neglect and in all cases must make emergency provisions for the care of these children while the home situation is being straightened out or arrangements can be made for permanent care.

"Another problem is being created by requests for infants and toddlers which leaves us with a serious shortage of homes for older children. A family crisis making a child homeless doesn't pick its time to happen so we must be able to place these children on short notice", Mrs. Sisk pointed out.

Persons interested in obtaining further information on providing home care should contact Mrs. Danner at Prince Georges County Welfare Board, WA. 7-4600.

and discussions after the business part of future meetings.

Mr. Rosenzweig explained the COOP, which is a consumer-oriented organization, providing supermarket, pharmacy and auto service station, located in the Greenbelt shopping center area. Springhill Lake residents were invited to patronize these service establishments.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served in an atmosphere of congenial hospitality.

Israeli Cultural Attache' To Talk On Life In Kibbutz

"Life in Utopia," a film program prepared by the British Broadcasting Co., depicting life on a farm collective (KIBBUTZ) in Israel, will be presented at a meeting of the Greenbelt delegates to the Co-op Congress at a meeting on Monday, January 20. The film will be preceded by a short presentation given by Mr. Avital Mossinson, cultural and press attache of the Israeli Embassy. Mr. Mossinson was born and brought up on a Kibbutz and will speak of his experiences as a child and youth.

The program will be held in the Co-op Community room over the food store, at 9:30 pm following the business meeting of the area delegation which starts at 8 pm.

53 MINUTE MARCH TO BEGIN SUNDAY

Volunteer workers will begin the 53-Minute March Sunday January 19 as the climax of the annual campaign of United Cerebral Palsy of Prince Georges County, Inc.

According to Frank Mudd, President of the Association, the 53-Minute March, so called because a child is born every 53-minutes with cerebral palsy in this nation, is the house-to-house canvass in which volunteers ask their neighbors for support in the campaign for $50,000 to provide treatment, therapy, an educational and training program for the cerebral palsied children of Prince Georges County which is conducted at the Day Care center in College Park, and to continue research into the causes and the possible prevention of the dread cripple.

Mudd says that the campaign must reach this goal as the Day Care center is operating "on an almost emergency basis."

"An increase in the requests for applications for child care at the center has resulted in a waiting list of 25 children," he said. We're concerned that the children who need help should get it."

Mudd urges citizens to open their doors to the 53-Minute Marchers. "When you give, you give to help one of your neighbors who is afflicted with cerebral palsy."

Denial of Apartment Zoning Overturned by County Judge

A Prince Georges County judge last week overturned a decision of the County Commissioners and granted zoning for a proposed $25 million apartment development on a 76-acre tract adjacent to the Greenbelt Regional Park off Kenilworth Avenue. The apartment zoning had been previously denied by the Commissioners on a 2-2 vote, with Frank Lastner, Chairman of the County Commissioners out of town.

Referring to the objection of the Greenbelt city council to the apartment zoning, Circuit Judge William B. Bowie noted in his ruling that the citizens who protested lived more than three miles away. He said that the previous vote by the Commissioners was "opposition without evidence," noting that neither the Interior Department nor the State had made a commitment to buy the land or condemn it.

"If we examine the objection to the zoning on the basis of the park use," the judge wrote, "then obviously the same objections would hold for the use of the property for rural residential zoning, which it now is, by the construction of single-family dwellings on the entire tract. This obviously would have the same effect on the park use as the plan for apartment construction."

Lions Honor Pullen Despite Heavy Snow

Despite the weather, a snowstorm which dumped nine inches of snow on the ground, approximately 100 people gathered at the American Legion Home on Monday to honor Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., retiring State Superintendent of Schools. The program was sponsored by the Greenbelt Lions Club and many other Lions from surrounding clubs.

Some of the outstanding guests who attended were Carleton R. Sickles, U. S. Congressman; H. Winship Wheatley, State Senator; Edward T. Conroy, House of Delegates; Edgar L. Smith, Mayor of Greenbelt; C. Taylor Whittier, Superintendent of Schools, Montgomery County; Dr. H. C. Byrd, former president of the University of Maryland and Lloyd L. Moore, District Governor, District 22-C Lions Club.

Mr. William Bevan, Lion's Club

member and principal of Laurel Junior High School, introduced Dr. Pullen who talked on the subject, "Looking Ahead in Education." Among the points emphasized by Dr. Pullen were federal aid to education, equal opportunities for all children, greater opportunities for college educations, especially for those who lack the money, and the need for adults to continue learning regardless of age.

Dr. Pullen received messages of congratulations and citations from President Lyndon Johnson, Governor J. Millard Tawes, Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Francis Keppel, Dr. Benjamin Willis, General Superintendent of Schools, Chicago, Illinois, President Wilson, University of Baltimore, Mayor Theodore McKeldin, Baltimore, Attorney General Thomas Finan, Rev. Edward Bunn, S.J., President of Georgetown University, and Mr. Minnich, Executive-Secretary, UNESCO, United Nations.

The governor will be introduced by Senator H. Winship Wheatley, Jr., Hyattsville. Following the governor's talk, Commissioner Gladys Spellman, liaison to the library board, will recount briefly the history of the first regional library. Her talk will be followed by acceptance of the building on behalf of the county and a short address by Commissioner Frank J.
